

BOSTON COLLEGE
ARCHIVES

BOSTON COLLEGE
ARCHIVES

BOSTON COLLEGE
ARCHIVE

216587

B O S T O N C O L L E G E A L U M N U S

DECEMBER

1 9 3 3

A Mutual Savings Bank

Operated for the benefit of its depositors. Deposits accepted up to $4,000 on individual accounts; up to $8,000 on joint accounts. These deposits may be left to accumulate at interest till the respective totals are $8,000 and $16,000.

Write for booklet about Savings Bank Life Insurance

Union Savings Bank

216 Tremont St., Boston

(Between Boylston and Stuart Sts.)

Tel. HANcock 7990-7991-7992

Paid $15.00

5.00 ✓

RAFTERY & MULLIN

Director of Funerals

BERNARD E. MULLIN

B. C. H. '23

36 Elm Street,
Waltham, Mass.

Tel. Wal. 0327

ARTHUR F. MULLIN

B. C. '22

33 Beaconsfield Road
Brookline, Mass.

Tel. Lon. 2211

15.00

aw 17.00 ✓

Compliments of

HERLIHY'S MILK

House to House Service Covering
Greater Boston

Tel. Somerset 8180

and ask for Tom Herlihy '26

Paid 18.00

'60 due

15
if you are planning anything in the way of TRAVEL

this coming season—whether a cruise to the mediterranean—
the west indies—
bermuda or a visit to florida
california
a european crossing—a flight to new york or across america—in fact, anything that spells TRAVEL

—CONSULT—

JOHN A. BARRY

Boston Tourist Co.

15 Water Street - Boston

Telephone HUB 5950

Paid 12.50 ✓

Let Us Help You . . .

in preparing that next piece of printed material.
We feel sure that we can offer some suggestions that will make it much easier for you.

We have had nearly 40 years' experience in preparing all types of fine printing—among which are included several year books and catalogs for exclusive schools and colleges in Boston and vicinity.

Small printing orders such as office forms and stationery, wedding invitations and announcements, etc., receive the same care and attention as the larger and more intricate ones. We are proud of our workmanship and use every means in our power to see that the standard of quality we have set for ourselves is strictly maintained.

Our main plant is located in Norwood "the printing town of Massachusetts" but we also maintain a printing office at 184 Summer Street, Boston, for the greater convenience of our clients in the city proper.

A call to Liberty 0035 or Norwood 1250 will bring a competent representative to your place of business—prepared to assist in the layout and the preparation of copy and general details essential to the successful production of really good printing.

Main Printing Office
16 BROADWAY
NORWOOD
Norwood 1250

Ambrose Press
founded 1895

Print-Smith Division
184 SUMMER STREET
BOSTON
Liberty 0035

WILLIAM CARDINAL O'CONNELL, '81

B O S T O N C O L L E G E A L U M N U S

OFFICIAL PUBLICATION OF THE BOSTON COLLEGE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

DECEMBER 1933

Subscription $1.00 per year, included in Alumni Dues.

VOL. 1, No. 2

JOHN F. COLLINS, '20, Editor. For the opinions expressed in the editorial columns the editor alone is responsible.

Published five times a year, October, December, February, April and June, at Boston, Mass., by Boston College Alumni Association, 276 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, Mass.

Entered as Second-Class Matter, September 28, 1933, at the Post Office at Boston, Massachusetts, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Editorial Comment

William
Cardinal
O'Connell

The seventy-fourth birthday of His Eminence, William Cardinal O'Connell, falls on December 8th. It is a happy coincidence that the natal feast of the Archbishop of Boston is a holy day of obligation, on which all Catholics attend Mass, and join in the liturgical prayer, which includes a special commemoration of their bishop. The Alumni of Boston College will join in this prayer with special sincerity. They know, more intimately than others, the dignity and worth of His Emineene. His career—student of the old Boston College of the seventies, seminarian in Rome, curate in Boston, Rector of the North American College in Rome, Bishop of Portland, Assistant at Pontifical Throne, papal envoy to Japan, recipient of the Grand Cordon of the Sacred Treasure by Mikado, Archbishop of Boston, member of the Sacred College of Cardinals—is a history of ecclesiastical advancement which is the pride of His Eminence's fellow students and alumni. Moreover, during the past twenty-seven years, they have, as members of the Archdiocese, known and admired the stately presence of their Archbishop, his strong and eloquent exposition of Catholic principles, his wisdom and prudence of administration, and—of more personal interest, his unfailing interest in and support of Boston College.

The Cardinal's seventy-fourth year will include the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood. It is a half century on which His Eminence and the admirers of His Eminence will look with well justified pride. But Alumnus is sure that the Cardinal will not indulge in mere retrospection. With vigorous bodily health, with a keen and active mind to which the years have given an ever riper maturity of understanding and experience, with a dynamic personality and a character both ready and fitted for leadership, His Eminence can and will take a commanding place in the troublesome days which are now upon us. We trust he will be spared to celebrate many more anniversaries, and to contribute new achievements whose anniversaries will in turn be counted.

Cordially, sincerely and respectfully, Alumnus inscribes its greetings and good wishes to His Eminence. Ad multos annos.

* * *

James
Bryant
Conant

Alumnus extends sincere congratulations to the Harvard Corporation and the Board of Overseers upon the election of Professor James Bryant Conant, Harvard College, 1914, as President of Harvard University. Also, we wish to felicitate President Conant who, we believe, will discharge the high responsibilities which devolve upon him in a manner which will measure fully to the high standards of his illustrious predecessors.

At the installation of President Conant, on October 9, Mr. George R. Agassiz, President of the Board of Overseers of Harvard University, presenting the insignia of office, spoke, in part, as follows:

"Here may inspired teachers convince the best of the aspiring youth of this distracted country that man cannot live by bread alone; that in a just estimate of the real values of life, the spiritual far outweighs the material; that for civilized man, the path to peace, happiness and the ability to serve his fellow man lies in the intelligent use of his higher faculties."

Many sons of Boston College have completed their studies in the professional schools of Harvard University. We know we bespeak the sentiments of our Alumni in wishing Godspeed to President Conant, eminent scientist, yet one who, his associates have learned, possesses a keen knowledge of practical affairs, with many interests beyond the boundaries of his academic work. To his intellectual qualifications there is added the youthful vigor of a well-ordered enthusiasm for the tasks which confront him. May we add that we are most confident that he will meet the duties of his office with discriminating ability, simplicity and human understanding from which the generations of present and future Harvard men and, as well, those of other universities will derive healthy inspiration.

* * *

Alumni Secretary To have a strong alumni organization a graduate group should have an energetic secretary. To be a successful secretary one must have the support and co-operation of the alumni generally. Alumnus feels that Mr. John M. Tobin, president, and the executive committee have made a splendid choice in the selection of Mr. William A. Marr, '25, as executive secretary of the Boston College Alumni Association.

A real step has been taken to solidify Boston College men. The popular slogan of the day is "We do our part." Think it over. Have you done yours? Are you going to? The first obligation is the payment of alumni dues. Have you done your part? Another vital step is the co-operation of our members in bringing our mailing lists up to date. Give us the opportunity to keep you informed.

Our new secretary will be glad to welcome you at the Alumni Office, 276 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston. Drop in. Exchange ideas. Phone Kenmore 2432 if you want any information whatever about Boston College, its activities, its alumni.

* * *

Christmas Greetings It may seem to be a bit premature, but since the next issue of Alumnus will not reach your home until February, 1934 we feel it proper at this time to extend to our alumni a friendly greeting in keeping with the season soon to come.

We look forward confidently to the dawn of the New Year. May its coming presage a greater Boston College, a more united alumni, a more energetic Alumnus.

To Boston College men everywhere Happy Christmas and a Joyful New Year.

A SPLENDID RECORD

	B. C.	OPP.
St. Anselm's.....	22	0
Loyola.....	37	0
Centre.....	6	0
Fordham (Polo Grounds).....	6	32
Boston University.....	25	0
Georgetown.....	39	0
Villanova.....	9	0
Western Maryland.....	12	9
Holy Cross.....	13	9

WHERE, OH WHERE?

We need some help. Kindly look this list of names over and see if you recognize any of them. If you happen to know the correct address of any one, or where we may find it won't you please send it to the Alumni Office, 276 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, Mass. Better still, if it comes to your mind now just call Kenmore 2432 and Billy Marr will be happy to make a proper record of it.

Joseph P. Loughry, '99, 1650 Broadway, New York City, N. Y.; Joseph P. Sheanon, '04, 86 Rowe St., Roslindale, Mass.; Daniel J. O'Hearn, '05, 2056 Grand Avenue, New York City, N. Y.; Richard F. Powers, '06, 9 Sumner Terrace, Dorchester, Mass.; Dr. N. George Milan, '09, Warren Clinic, Warren, Minn.; William A. O'Brien, '11, 561 School St., Belmont, Mass.; Thomas H. Magner, Jr., '11, 36 Pearl St., Hartford, Conn.

Richard A. Quinn, '17, 102 Hancock St., Dorchester, Mass.; Michael T. Hickey, '17, 34 Station St., Brookline, Mass.; Arthur A. Wholley, '18, 34 Edgewood St., Roxbury, Mass.; Michael J. Maher, '19, 43 Holworthy St., Cambridge, Mass.; William F. Maloney, '19, 108 Robinwood Ave., Jamaica Plain, Mass.; Joseph A. Donahue, '19, 18 Edmonds St., Somerville, Mass.; James F. O'Brien, '21, 70 Parmenter Road, Waltham, Mass.

John D. Walsh, '21, 227 Bowdoin St., Dorchester, Mass.; John H. V. MacGrath, '21, 2301 Cathedral Ave., Washington, D. C.; Arthur T. Joyce, '22, 36 Barclay St., New York City, N. Y.; Joseph B. Moriarty, '23, 35 Sharon St., Boston, Mass.; Thomas M. Connelly, '24, 21 Whitten St., Dorchester, Mass.; Walter F. Tobin, '24, 40 Edison Green, Dorchester, Mass.; John P. Maloney, '25, 23 Parkton Road, Jamaica Plain, Mass.

Joseph P. Cotter, '26, 33 Wyatt St., Somerville, Mass.; Francis A. Donahue, '26, 69 Sheridan St., Jamaica Plain, Mass.; William H. Mahoney, Jr., '26, 73 Dunster St., Cambridge, Mass.; Joseph W. Willis, '26, 21 Pond St., Dorchester, Mass.; Harold W. Jenkins, '27, 19 Birch St., Everett, Mass.; Joseph A. McDonald, '27, 91 Cedar St., Taunton, Mass.; Anthony S. Martin, '28, Greenville Road, North Scituate, Mass.; Joseph H. Gibbons, '33, 3 Dewey St., Natick, Mass.

The following list of men we have no addresses for: Francis W. Fogarty, '97; Edward M. McDonough, '11; William J. Rooney, '12; James P. Hopkins, '15; George F. Kehoe, '16; Francis K. Hinchey, '16; William F. McCormack, '17; John C. Sargent, '18; Henry W. Mueller, '19; Cornelius M. Flynn, '21; William L. Hughes, '21; Charles F. Daley, '22; Marcus F. Crocker, '23; James F. Timon, Jr., '23; James P. Doherty, '24; William F. Walsh, '24; Frederick L. Leary, '25; John L. Donovan, '25; Thomas P. Shea, '26; William F. Murphy, '27; John A. Lynch, '27; Edward G. Richardson, '27; William F. Hayes, '28; John J. Gale, '29; John F. Ridge, '30.

The Thompson Exhibit

THE exhibition of Thompsoniana held in the College Library during the first week of October was the first tribute of its kind ever paid to the great Catholic poet of Victorian England, Francis Thompson. It brought to the Heights great numbers of librarians, college professors, students, and persons interested in literature from every part of New England. Many who came intending to stay for a few minutes, remained for as many hours when they saw the extent and richness of the treasures, and not a few returned every day while the exhibition lasted in order to browse about at leisure. We do not know the total number of those who attended, but during a period of two hours on Sunday afternoon there were more than three hundred visitors. Copies of a catalog containing significant data in regard to the manuscripts and rare volumes made it easy to view them intelligently, since it observed the order in which the various objects were shown. Mimeographed copies of the longer, unpublished manuscripts and letters were available for those who desired to read them.

Among the most interested visitors was Miss Anne Kimball Tuell, professor of English at Wellesley College. In the preparation of her excellent critique, "Mrs. Meynell and Her Literary Generation," Miss Tuell was the guest of Mrs. Meynell for several weeks and the exhibit recalled to her mind many happy incidents concerning the Meynells who saved Thompson from physical destitution and spiritual despair. Another very interested visitor was a prominent woman doctor of Baltimore who is making a comparative study of the poetry of Thompson and Emily Dickinson. At the time of the exhibit this lady was the guest of Emily Dickinson's niece, Madam Martha Dickinson Bianchi. Madam Bianchi was keenly interested in the exhibit and regretted deeply that ill health prevented her from attending, so she requested her friend to come so that she might tell her about it.

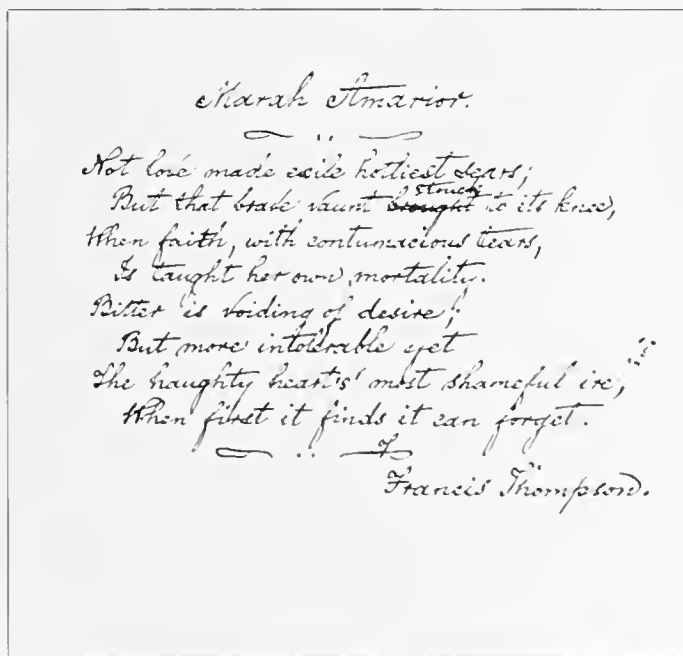

The chief feature of the exhibition was the private collection of Thompsoniana owned by Mr. Seymour Adelman, who brought all his precious things from his home in Chester, Pennsylvania, and remained while they were being shown, as guest of the faculty. It will not be necessary to repeat here the descriptions of Mr. Adelman's collection which have already appeared. It will be enough to say that in a letter to Father Connolly, received just before the exhibit, Mr. Wilfrid Meynell, the greatest living authority on the subject, spoke of the Adelman Collection as the best in the world, next to his own. But there are some very interesting items that were not mentioned in previous articles. One is a letter in which Thompson shows how unyielding he could be and yet how gentle. His review of a volume of poetry written by a woman named Miss Shore was objected to by a friend of the author, as being unchivalrous. In answer, Thompson wrote at length to justify his criticism and summed up his position with a sentence as mild as it was conclusive: "Did the critic abstain from the blame he thought just because, for example, of the writer's sex, it would be equivalent to abdicating criticism where women are concerned, extending the privileges of the drawing-room to the reviewing-column."

Of the letters to publishers and editors, many written with a very unsteady hand, there is not a single one that does not begin with an excuse for the poet's tardiness. It is impossible to read them without a sense of the tragic pathos in Thompson's ceaseless struggle with himself in this matter. But there is, undoubtedly, an amusing element in such letters as this one to Mr. Hind, editor of the Academy: "I muddled up the time altogether today. How, I do not now understand. I started off soon after 2. Thinking I had time for a letter to the Academy, I delayed my journey to write it. When I was drawing to a conclusion, I heard the clock strike 3 (as it seemed to me). I thought I should soon be finished, so went on to the end. A few minutes later, as it appeared, the clock struck again, and I counted 4. Alarmed, I rushed off vexed that I should get in by half-past 4 instead of half-past 3, as I intended—and finished the thing in the train. I got to the Academy, and was struck all of a heap. There was nobody there, and it was ten past six!"

An original photograph of an unpublished poem by Francis Thompson, "Marah Amarior," ("Bitterness more Bitter"). The original manuscript is in the Adelman collection.

Many of the manuscripts, however, are unrelieved by any humorous element. Remembering Thompson's love-famished soul, it was tragic beyond expression to read in the poet's own handwriting the opening lines of "Love's Almsman":

"You, Love's mandicancy who never tried,
How little of your almsman me you know!"

And when we remember the fearful schooling of Thompson's outcast days in the streets of London we can scarcely believe our eyes when we see with how firm a hand he wrote:

"But little food Love's beggars needs must serve,
That eye your plenteous graces from the street."

In "Marah Amarior" (Bitterness More Bitter) we see again the contrast between the careful, steady handwriting and the awfulness of what is written. Other poets have sounded the depths of abiding grief, but few have described so well as Thompson that awful humiliation of the proud heart,

"When first it finds it can forget."

The privilege of reading such lines in the poet's own handwriting and the consequent feeling of the nearness of the poet himself is an experience which lovers of Thompson's poetry will not soon forget. And it was all the result of the generosity of a young man still in his twenties who has devoted his wealth and his time for the past eight years to a labor of love in attempting to bring together a collection of Thompsoniana that would compel the attention of the literary world.

Shortly after young Adelman began his college career in the University of Pennsylvania, he chanced upon three poems of Francis Thompson in Elliott and Foerster's anthology, "English Poetry in the Nineteenth Century." The poems were the lovely lines to Mrs. Meynell, "Before Her Portait in Youth"; the awful story of God's pursuit of the soul, "The Hound of Heaven"; and those unfinished lines of profound mystical vision written by the poet on his death-bed, "The Kingdom of God." Surely, thought young Adelman, these must be a sort of tour de force of a poet of whom he had never before heard. But further reading revealed that the great bulk of Thompson's poetry was all of equal excellence. Then, in a burst of youthful enthusiasm came the resolution of which we have spoken. And in less than a decade it has been fulfilled! Is there not in the achievement of this young man who does not share Thompson's religious faith an example for our Catholic students and alumni to emulate as well as to admire? Perhaps young Adelman himself thought so when, upon leaving, he presented Father Connolly with an autographed letter of Coventry Patmore, Thompson's closest literary friend, saying as he did so that he hoped it might be the beginning of a collection of Patmore's works at Boston College that would supplement and rival his own of Thompson.

Father Connolly, who is an ardent devotee of Thompson and who was the originator of the recent exhibit at the College Library has written a splendid volume—"Poems of Francis Thompson." Mr. William Rose Benet, in the Saturday Review calls it, "The most interesting edition of this poet that has yet appeared." "Thought" describes the volume as "The most complete study of the poet to date," and continues, "To nearly 300 pages of verse . . . he (Father Connolly) has added over 250 pages of notes which explain and interpret the poems from every possible angle." The volume is timely. It deserves wide circulation. Thompson now lives among us.

* * *

INSTALLED AS BISHOP

Most Reverend Gerald M. Shaughnessy, S. M., Boston College 1909, was installed as Bishop of Seattle in an impressive ceremony in the Cathedral of St. James in the city of Seattle, Washington, October 10, 1933.

In a public reception held in honor of Bishop Shaughnessy the following day Hon. Clarence D. Martin, Governor of the State of Washington, Hon. John F. Dore, Mayor of Seattle and members of the Supreme and Superior Courts joined in an enthusiastic welcome. More than 5000 filled the municipal auditorium to do honor to the new Bishop.

Bishop Shaughnessy was consecrated in the crypt of the Shrine of the Immaculate Conception on the campus of Catholic University of America in Washington, D. C. His Excellency, the Most Reverend Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, Apostolic Delegate, officiated at the consecration. Bishop Shaughnessy is a native of Milford, Mass.

Previous to his departure for his Seattle See Bishop Shaughnessy was the guest at dinner of Very Rev. Louis J. Gallagher, S. J., President of the College.

* * *

ASSOCIATE COUNSEL

Mr. Harold J. Taylor, '12, for the past 12 years counsel for the Massachusetts Insurance Department, has been appointed associate counsel for the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company, Boston. Mr. Taylor succeeded the late Francis B. Patten, who served for 40 years in that position.

Born in the Middle West, Mr. Taylor came to Boston in his early childhood. After his graduation from Boston College he continued his studies at the Boston University Law School where he received his law degree in 1915. The same year he received a master's degree at Boston College.

Mr. Taylor lives in Newtonville, is married and has three sons.

Fellow Alumnus:

By MYLES CONNOLLY, '18, Hollywood, California

THERE was, once upon a lovely time, a Boston College alumnus who couldn't keep his mouth shut or his pen still. He made speeches—bad, vague, hysterical speeches—on the slightest provocation, and he wrote articles—egotistical exasperating articles—on no provocation at all. Unfortunately, very unfortunately, amiable people listened to his speeches and published his articles. He should have starved to death or have been beaten to death. He was a nuisance.

But, alas, he was neither beaten nor starved. He grew fat and prosperous and noisier and more prolific—and more and more of a nuisance. It began to appear that sane men would have to do something about him. It is a wonder, now—and a source of great astonishment to the alumnus himself—that such sane and stalwart men as he knew did not rise up and strike him down. There were critical moments when it seemed that the hollow shell that was he would be crushed by some indignant bartender or outraged subscriber. But he always escaped, always and strangely, always and unfortunately. He lived. It might be said he lived to learn.

You and I, being sane, and reasonably good Christians and citizens, and fellow Boston College men, can look upon this misguided alumnus with understanding and smiling patience. What we knew when we were seventeen it took him over thirty years to discover. He would insist, and insist at the top of his voice, and insist in furious articles, that it was good when the sun shone in winter, and that honest laughter was good, and that the love of a sensitive woman was good, and that the kindness of God was good and, also, unbelievable. He believed so fervently in friendship, for example, that he would write poems and make speeches about it. All those obvious things—gratitude and beauty and the sanctity of childhood—all such obvious things that you and I take in stride were discoveries to him, spectacular and sensational. Once, indeed, he wrote a book on these obvious things. Naturally, nobody read it. That is, nobody of any account. A few heroic friends out of kindness and several anemic undergraduates out of not knowing any better. And, yes, a missionary who had it wished on him for Christmas. But the book had a very good effect—and this I think is true of some bad books—it had a very definite effect on the writer. He read the book himself—well, let us say, a good half of it—and suddenly realized what a nuisance he was, and had been, and might keep on being. He broke out into a cold sweat, shrivelled down to half his size, shut up his typewriter, and his mouth, and went to California where nobody cares, into a business where nothing matters.

I suppose we can put it accurately when we say this alumnus retired. Except for the fact that he is still a little sensitive, we might say that he grew up or grew wise to himself or just grew. In any event, to the great relief of most of his friends, he grew silent. If he is still making any of his ridiculous discoveries he is now keeping them to himself. And the sum total of all this is, I believe, generally satisfactory.

My article—if this brief little sketch of a fellow alumnus can be called an article—might have ended here, and well ended here, except for one thing: it has a point. I know it is old-fashioned nowadays for articles to have a point, but that is something in me I cannot at this late date correct. I shall come to the point.

Yesterday I dropped in to see our Fellow Alumnus.

His waiting room was crowded. Ann Harding was there, a fine woman, and Dolores Del Rio, a vivid woman, and Richard Dix, who can make the gang anytime. There were a couple of playwrights and a director. I decided this was one of those days and ducked. But Preston, a wily man who assists the alumnus, caught me in the hall.

(Continued on page 13)

MYLES CONNOLLY

ON THE HEIGHTS

REV. FRANCIS V. SULLIVAN, S. J.

Rev. Francis V. Sullivan, S. J., faculty director of athletics on the Heights has instilled into the student body a splendid collegiate spirit. The undergraduates are very enthusiastic over his recent appointment and co-operate heartily with the athletic policy which Father Sullivan and Mr. John P. Curley have inaugurated.

Father Sullivan, who formerly lived in Norwood, Mass., was a student at Boston College during 1917-18, before his entrance into the Society of Jesus. He is thoroughly familiar with the problems of athletics that confront the students of any day college. His success during the short period that he has held the office of Faculty Director augurs well for the future of Boston College athletics. May he be with us in that capacity for many years.

* * *

Under the supervision of Rev. Francis V. Sullivan, S. J., Faculty Director of athletics and Graduate Manager John P. Curley, '13, the Boston College A. A. office has been renovated completely. Several partitions have been erected and Mr. Curley has arranged the new offices to tender the most efficient service possible.

* * *

SILVER TROPHY

The Philomatheia Club, Mrs. Vincent P. Roberts, president, has offered a massive, sterling silver trophy, to be known as the Philomatheia Trophy, for competition in the Boston College-Holy Cross football series. The new cup, which stands more than two feet high will go to the team first winning three games in their annual competition, although it is not required that they be successive victories. The names of the winning teams and the scores will be inscribed each year.

MUSICAL CLUBS

The Boston College Musical Clubs have inaugurated their eighth season under the direction of Mr. James Ecker. Rehearsals are being conducted regularly in preparation for an active season.

Mr. Theodore N. Marier, '34, president of the club is beginning his fourth year as pianist. Many of last year's members have returned, including Mr. Leo Scully, '34, tenor soloist; and three members of the quartet of a year ago; Mr. John Foley, '36; Mr. Joseph Ecker, '36 and Mr. William Kean, '35. Mr. Robert San Souci, '36, returns as concert master.

* * *

THE STYLUS

The Boston College Stylus, one of the activities of college life that we all remember, has inaugurated another season with the same high standard of literary accomplishment that has characterized it for many years.

The Stylus, as a result of its work last year, won two of the four first places in the final selection of the Literary Association of Jesuit Colleges. A short story, which originally appeared in the Stylus was reprinted in The American Short-Story and two poems in Modern American Poetry of 1933, were contributions by Stylus editors. The cover design has been modernized and its attractiveness has been the subject of very favorable comment.

* * *

THE DRAMATIC SOCIETY

The Dramatic Society, one of the leading college societies in New England in dramatic art, has begun work upon this year's production, "Once in a Lifetime" by Hart Moss and George Kaufman, co-authors.

The officers of the society are: Mr. Walter Herlihy, '35, president; Mr. Joseph Warren, '34, vice-president; Francis Russell, '34, business manager and John Broderick, '36, stage manager. Mr. Joseph Kennealy, S. J., is moderator.

The date of presentation will be announced later.

* * *

Very Rev. Louis J. Gallagher, S. J., President of Boston College delivered a very interesting lecture on "Russia" in the Boston College Library Friday evening, November 24th before a large gathering of the members and friends of the Masters' Assistants' Club of Boston. The club, Miss Mary C. Culhane, president, is composed of about 80 teachers in the Boston School System.

* * *

On Sunday, November 26th Father Rector addressed the New England Federation of College Catholic Clubs during the Fall Communion Breakfast.

MILLROSE GAMES

Jack Ryder, track coach on the Heights, has received an invitation to run his two-mile team at the annual Millrose games in New York City, February 10, 1934. He has accepted. The Eagles will race against New York University, Manhattan and Columbia. Coach Ryder has lost Bob Jordan and John Moynahan from his championship indoor team but has several excellent prospects in Donald Fleet, Dana Smith, John Downey, William Maloney, William Eaton and John Power.

* * *

HOCKEY A MAJOR SPORT

Boston College will be represented on the ice this winter by the first official hockey team since 1929. The sport, always popular with the students at the Heights, has been re-established by the Athletic Association.

Already Coach John Kelley, '28, has a large squad working out daily with a strong nucleus from last year's informal team upon which to build.

Captain Ray Funchion should lead a fast outfit onto the ice in a few weeks. The forward line will be cared for by Crimlish, Liddell, Furbush, Groden, Sampson and several outstanding players from last year's freshman team. Captain Funchion, Blake, Wise and Downey are the veterans who will look after the defence assignments but they will receive plenty of competition from the freshmen of last year. Sullivan and Ready are the veteran goaltenders.

Manager Joseph McLaughlin has announced that games have been arranged with Princeton, Brown, New Hampshire, Boston University, Northeastern, Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Bates.

* * *

BOSTON COLLEGE CLUB
OF NEW YORK

The Boston College Club of New York has established permanent headquarters at The Centre, 120 Central Park South, New York City. This is the former home of the Catholic Club and is conducted now under the direction of the Centre Alumni Association, an organization composed of Catholic men who are college graduates. Many of the Boston men were entertained at the Centre on the occasion of the trip to the Fordham game and were impressed very favorably.

The New Yorkers plan one of their largest meetings of the season in January at which time they hope to have the pleasure of an address from Very Reverend Louis J. Gallagher, S. J., president of Boston College. Mr. Philip D. Shea, '20, president of the Club extends to all Boston College men who may be in the vicinity of Manhattan at that time a warm invitation to attend.

In the News

NEW ALUMNI SECRETARY

Mr. John M. Tobin, '19, president of the Alumni Association has announced the appointment of Mr. William A. Marr, '25 as executive alumni secretary. Mr. Marr has assumed the duties of his new office at 276 Commonwealth Ave., Boston, Mass.

During his collegiate days Bill was senior class representative in the Student Athletic Association where he served as vice-president. He was active in the musical clubs at the Heights and also was a member of the Fulton Debating Society.

WILLIAM A. MARR, '25

* * *

THE BOSTON COLLEGE CLUB
OF DORCHESTER

The Boston College Club of Dorchester held an organization meeting last week at the Stoughton School, River Street, Dorchester, preparatory to organizing the alumni in the nearby districts of Milton, Neponset, Mattapan and Hyde Park. Mr. Joseph J. Curran, '29, acted as temporary chairman. The Club is anxious to contact all Boston College men in the district and to solicit their active support. Further information may be had regarding future meetings at the Boston College Alumni office, 276 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston.

* * *

BOSTON COLLEGE CLUB OF LYNN

The young men of Lynn who are undergraduates at Boston College have requested the co operation of Alumnus in their efforts to stimulate the interest of the alumni in an active, energetic Boston College Club of Lynn. We are happy to assist.

All Boston College men in Lynn are urged to get in touch with Mr. George Miles, president or Mr. Lawrence R. Kirvan, secretary, 47 Abbott Street, Lynn. Or information may be obtained at the Alumni Office, 276 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, Mass. Tel. Kenmore 2432.

Alumni In the News

WILLIAM J. RICH, '01

MANY will remember William J. Rich of 1901. "Bill" has been in Seattle, Washington since 1931; director and treasurer of the New England Fish Company, which, strangely enough, does most of its business on the Pacific coast. Bill was a splendid student at old B. C., and is still a loyal alumnus.

We asked him for his impressions of the "far" West, and we wish we had space for his whole story. His first adventure was the wreck of a plane in which he was traveling to an Alaskan port. Miraculously, Bill was not killed; but his many injuries caused a long siege of ill health, which happily is now changing for the better. Bill does not like my "far" West idea. Tells us that frozen salmon are landed in Boston from Seattle in 84 hours, and planes take less than 30 hours from there to New York.

Seattle is quite a place—375,000 people—69 sq. miles of land and 36 of water—with a mean average temperature of 52°, no winter except rain, but plenty of that. Believe it or not, he sends a clipping telling of the postponement of a night football game because of FOG, too thick to see the field. This climate is one of the secrets of the big men of the University of Washington. They have a 365-day growing season. The University has a marvelous setting, with Lake Washington at its gates and facilities for every kind of sport.

Speaking of B. C. penetration into the Northwest, Bill mentions first the new Bishop, Most Reverend Gerald Shaughnessy of '09. Phil Kennedy, '04 and Jack Green, '05 were both engineers in Seattle, but Phil was accidentally killed about 15 years ago and Jack is somewhere in Manitoba. A curious fact is this: British Columbia auto plates are maroon with old gold numerals: B. C. colors on B. C. license plates. But the Bishop and Bill seem to be the only B. C. men out there at present. He mentioned as one of his physicians a Dr. G. R. Dempsay, a defense man on the McGill hockey teams that battled B. C. in the days (or nights) of Sonny Foley, Culhane, and Mullowney.

The Doctor, a "big shot" out there, wished to be remembered to his old rivals, and to hear from them. His address is Medical Bldg., Times Square, Seattle, Washington. By the way, the address of Bishop Shaughnessy is 1106 Spring Street, Seattle. And Bill's is 1105 Fifth Ave. North.

Bill also reports that Arthur Woodley, a former shot putter at B. C. High is piloting a plane in Alaska, near the station of his brother, Rev. George Woodley, S. J. There is a Jesuit church, too, in Seattle, St. Joseph's, a new and beautiful edifice. Always a royal rooster at all B. C. games, Bill still follows the teams closely, via press reports. He probably knows the players better than some of our local alumni. He closes his interview with a fervent wish to visit the new stadium on Alumni Field, and to watch the games under a real college atmosphere. We all wish him a quick return to health and hope to see him soon again in the Boston he loves so well, and at the College which he so ably represents in the "far" West.

WM. T. MILLER, '04

* * *

CALLANAN, '21 IN ARABIA

Mr. Leo J. Callanan, '21, American Consul at Nairobi, British East Africa, has been assigned recently as Consul at Aden, Arabia. Mr. Callanan has had a varied consular career since his graduation from Boston College. His previous posts of service include Genoa, Italy; Melbourne and Adelaide, Australia; Port Said, Egypt; Nassau, Bahamas; Madras and Bombay, India.

* * *

APPOINTED DIRECTOR

Rev. Richard E. Vahey, O. P., M. A., has been appointed assistant national director of the Third Order of St. Dominic, one of the oldest religious associations for laity in the Catholic Church.

The appointment was made by the Very Rev. T. S. McDermott, O. P., S. T. Lr., LL. D., of New York City, Provincial of the Dominican Fathers. Father Vahey will be associate editor of "The Torch," a national magazine published by the Dominican Fathers and director of the home and foreign missions of the Dominican Order.

Father Vahey was graduated from Boston College in 1926 and received his master's degree in 1927. Entering the Dominican Order in 1927 he made his novitiate at St. Rose Priory, Springfield, Kentucky and pursued his ecclesiastical studies at St. Thomas Aquinas Study House, Washington, D. C. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1932. While attending the Preachers' Institute at Catholic University he served as assistant chaplain at the National Soldiers' Home, Washington, D. C.

Father Vahey now resides at the Priory of St. Vincent Ferrer, Lexington Ave., at 66th Street, New York City.

Eagles Triumph Over Holy Cross

By GERRY MOORE, '32, Boston Transcript Sports Writer

A COURAGEOUS band of maroon-clad young men rounded out one of the most successful football seasons in the history of Boston College by conquering a favored Holy Cross rival, 13 to 9, in the thirty-first and one of the hardest-fought chapters in the rivalry of these great New England Jesuit colleges.

More than 20,000 wildly-cheering spectators, favored by perfect football weather, provided a fitting background for the first gridiron victory of the Eagles over the Crusaders since 1929. Their numbers proved that interest undoubtedly has been restored to this classic rivalry . . . interest which seemed to droop in 1931 and 1932, for some reason or other.

Let us indulge in a few statistics before going into details of the triumph, which I feel are well worth repeating, so spectacular were they. The result marked the sixteenth win for Boston College against twelve for the Purple in the entire series. Three contests have ended in scoreless ties. It gave the Eagles a season's record of eight victories and only one defeat. That was bettered only by the 1920, 1926 and 1928 maroon and gold unbeaten aggregations and the 1926 record included ties with Holy Cross and the Haskell Indians.

Some more. It celebrated the first B. C. H. C. game in the new Alumni Field stadium, now two years old, and the first encounter between the close rivals on the Boston College campus since 1915. It brought the Philomatheia Cup, up in competition for the first time, into the possession of the Eagles for one year and gave them one leg of the three needed to gain permanent possession of this beautiful silver trophy, which may take a more and more important place in the background of this traditional rivalry as the years go on.

Last, but by no means least, the B. C. triumph completed a string of eight straight wins by the Eagles on Alumni Field this year and, with it, a well-recognized claim to the New England college championship. The victories of Holy Cross over Harvard and Brown and Harvard's win over Yale paved the way for such a situation.

Now for the game. The weather was perfect overhead, but the Alumni Field playing surface early proved a trifle treacherous. This fact acted slightly in favor of our friends from Worcester, whose line averaged over 200 pounds per man against a maroon and gold frontier that barely went 180 pounds per incumbent. But the Eagles had not adopted "Wits Win" as their motto without cause. It was to be proved early.

How evenly matched the teams were was demonstrated over most of the first period as they battled back and forth around midfield with neither side penetrating inside its rival's 30-yard line in possession of the ball until just before the quarter closed. Finally, Frank Maloney, doughty captain of the Eagles from Brighton, intercepted a forward pass, thrown by Jim Hobin and intended for Right End Tom Kelley, at the Boston 30-yard line and scampered southwards up the east sideline until he was brought down from behind by Tony Morandos, hardworking Purple center, at the Holy Cross 30-yard stripe. Excellent interference made possible the thrilling run.

BOSTON COLLEGE SCORES

Enter John Freitas, Boston College's quarterback from Fairhaven, who concluded three years of varsity campaigning in magnificent style. Johnny attempted to skirt the Purple right end and lost a yard. He then tried an aerial to Maloney and this failed. Third down, the imperturbable maroon and gold quarterback faked another pass and ran through the scattered Crusaders up to the 23-yard mark. Here the period ended.

ADMINISTRATION BUILDING ROTUNDA

Changing goals the Eagles took up the attack with the north goal as their objective and the ball close to the east sideline. This astute Freitas lad stepped back as if to attempt a dropkick from the field. He even threw aside his helmet. When he received the ball from center, he even went so far as to make a pretence at dropping it for the kick. But, he straightened up suddenly and shot a perfect pass to Left End Joseph Killilea of Hyde Park who was running towards the northwest corner of the field. Joe took over the ball over his shoulder at the 10-yard intersection, but Tommy Callan, diminutive Cross safety-man, came up fast to down Killilea at the 6.

Ed Driscoll, B. C.'s promising sophomore running back from Woburn, then advanced two yards inside the enemy's left tackle. Freitas then attempted to run outside that tackle and tripped over one of his own men, losing about a half-yard. However, the ball was in the middle of the field laterally. Johnny was quick to sense the situation. It was perfect for the end-around play that Pennsylvania invented in 1904 and the Eagles have been practicing all year, but haven't used. It was perfectly executed. Bobby Ott took the pass from centre. He faked giving it to Freitas. Johnny went over and blocked Capt. Charles "Chuck" Reiss, Holy Cross captain and left end, Ott faked giving the ball to Driscoll as the latter hit the center of the line. Killilea came racing around from his left end post and did take the ball from Ott. Joe kept right on going and crossed the goal line standing up at the northeast corner of the field. Freitas's effective blocking and the bewildered Holy Cross secondaries left Killilea unharassed. Ed Kelly, B. C. senior from Norwood who has had extraordinary success with placement kicking, was hustled into the fray to attempt to convert the extra point. His try was high enough, but wide of the uprights and six points was the Boston total.

CRUSADERS STAGE RALLY

This Holy Cross team wasn't beaten, by any odds. Shortly before the half closed, the Crusaders got possession of the ball at the B. C. 37-yard line and marched the intervening distance to a touchdown in ten rushes. They didn't use one forward pass and Ed Britt, rugged Lexington boy, carried on seven of the ten rushes. It was justice that he score the touchdown, plunging through centre from the one-yard line. He was pushed backwards by the fighting B. C. line on the play, but his forward progress gave him the touchdown.

Charles "Buzz" Harvey, great Purple tackle from
(Continued on page 14)

LIBRARY ENTRANCE

ALUMNI OFFICERS

The officers of the Boston College Alumni Association are: John M. Tobin, '19, President; Rev. David V. Fitzgerald, '07, First Vice-President; William J. O'Sullivan, '14, Second Vice-President; Henry J. Smith, '22, Treasurer; J. Burke Sullivan, '24, Secretary.

The members of the Executive Committee are: Charles F. Hurley, ex-'16; John F. Monahan, '24; Rev. James H. Doyle, '22.

1909

Remember Next June!

Alumni 1934 Day

In the News

TO BECOME MISSIONARY

Rev. Gerald C. Fitzgerald, '16, has entered the Congregation of the Holy Cross at St. Genevieve, 10 miles outside of Montreal, preparatory to beginning work as a missionary.

Father Fitzgerald has been a curate at the Church of Our Lady of the Presentation in Brighton for the past twelve years. He is the son of Mr. Michael E. Fitzgerald, superintendent of the public schools in Cambridge.

* * *

ON CIVIL WORKS BOARD

Mr. Charles F. Hurley, ex-'16, State Treasurer, has been appointed a member of the Civil Works Administration in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. This Administration Board is supervising an extensive program of public works designed to restore thousands of men to gainful occupations.

* * *

ANNOUNCE APPOINTMENTS

Announcement has been made of the appointment of Mr. Joseph J. Hurley, '16, and of Mr. John A. Canavan, '18, as assistant United States attorneys in the Boston District. Mr. Hurley is a member of the Boston School Committee and professor at Boston College Law School. Mr. Canavan, whose home is in Winthrop, is a professor at Boston College Law School.

* * *

TENDERED DINNER

In recognition of his appointment as a member of the Massachusetts Superior Court, Judge John E. Swift, '99, formerly a professor at Boston College Law School was tendered a dinner recently by the faculty and students of the law school and friends in the legal profession. The dinner was held at the Copley-Plaza Hotel.

* * *

RESOLUTION

A resolution, recommending that the name of the late Rev. William J. Farrell be placed above the portals of the veterans' hospital in Bedford, was unanimously adopted at the recent reunion of the Army and Navy Legion of Valor held in New York City.

Father Farrell, Boston College, '98, was chaplain of the Legion of Valor as well as chaplain of the 102nd field artillery, the 104th infantry and the 103rd field artillery in the 26th Division during the World War. The resolution was telegraphed to President Roosevelt, as commander-in-chief of the army and navy.

The Legion recommended to the President posthumous honor for Father Farrell, "as a fitting memorial to his own brave deeds and to his many sacrifices for his fellow-men; and for the inspiration of the generations yet unborn that they too may have before them an ideal of a great soldier of God and of our own great United States of America."

Fellow Alumnus:

(Continued from page 7)

"He's been waiting for you," whispered Preston. "He hasn't seen anybody all morning."

I slipped in the private door.

Yes, he was waiting for me. His hair was awry and his eyes were squeezed up at the corners. He was sitting by the wall away from his desk, a paper in his hand. I didn't like the looks of him at all. I had seen that squint in his eyes years back before he grew. It meant a speech or a resignation from a job or a session at Paddy Lynch's bar, or all three. I was in for it.

He looked down at the paper and up at me. Then, he said: "How about you and me going back for the Holy Cross game?"

Well, well. The man was serious. A little round trip of six thousand miles. I know he made it last year just to enroll his older son up at the Heights. But this seemed a little far-fetched. And anyway, I had almost completely forgotten Holy Cross. It took me some moments to place it. But to him it was a burning entity.

I could say nothing. He jumped to his feet, paper in hand, and the speech began.

The speech was divided, roughly, into two parts. The first part said I was a fool, and the second said I was a traitor. I will pass lightly by the speech. I was a fool, he said, for not truly realizing what the Catholic college stood for. I thought it was a school that taught sound philosophy and right ethics, a sanctuary for religion and beauty, a modern outpost of an ancient cultural tradition. But it was more than that, said my speechmaker. It was a camp, a fort, a flag. It was our gang. When you went to the other side, even for the noble purpose of improving yourself socially, you weren't just making a mistake. You were being a traitor to your own. You were quitting. On one side were the many, on the other the few. On the one side were the strangers, on the other your kin. There was little loyalty left in the world, too little, alas. And it seemed a pity to him that the fires of loyalty burnt more fiercely on the other side, among the many, among the strangers. . . .

If you knew the alumnus in the old days before his reform, you know his speech. I had to bear the whole brunt of it. And all because I did not jump into his arms and shout: "On to Holy Cross!" I smiled a little. That exasperated him. He shoved the paper he had been waving into my hand and said: "Read this. Get out."

Eagles Triumph Over Holy Cross

(Continued from page 12)

Somerville, who was the recipient of much praise from the Eagles, nonchalantly placekicked the extra point, as he has done so many times this year, and Holy Cross led, 7 to 6. Three plays later the half ended.

But it was a Boston College year. The Eagles were not to be denied. They proved it by coming out full of fight for the second half and holding the Crusaders for downs inside the Boston ten-yard line before the half was many minutes old. Holy Cross had taken the kickoff at its own 20-yard line and marched directly to a first down at the Boston 10-yard post.

This magnificent stand seemed to inspire the Eagles. They fought with their backs to the wall for most of this period until, finally the tide was turned, when a long punt by Johnny Freitas was downed at the Purple two-yard line by Harold Ramsey, substitute end. Freitas ran Hobin's return punt from the Holy Cross 42 to the 38.

FREITAS TO FURBUSH

A forward pass on first down from Freitas to Earl (Pat) Avery, another of the sophomore stars, brought a first down at the 28. Driscoll gained five yards through the line and then was held for no gain. Third down and five to go, Freitas faded back to pass. He seemed tackled. He evaded a handful of Purple linemen. He ran across the field and seemed about to break for the goal. But he spotted Ed Furbush, sophomore end, alone down the field. So Johnny faded back to the Holy Cross 38-yard line, poised and tossed a floating aerial down to Furbush. Ed caught it, turned around and was across the line in two strides.

Paul Flaherty, still another sophomore satellite, kicked the extra point to bring the B. C. total to 13. The battle wasn't over. The Eagles had to take an intentional safety and give the Purple two more points to get their backs from the wall in the fourth period. Even after that, they had to wreck Holy Cross threats, the first time by holding for downs at the Boston 24-yard line and the second time when the omnipresent Johnny Freitas intercepted an attempted forward pass at the B. C. 30-yard line. But it was done and the Eagles screamed triumphantly.

It was a glorious victory. As one prominent Boston sports writer said: "B. C. is a great team and has a wonder man for a coach." All hail to Joe McKenney, his assistants and the band of stalwart youths who carried on.

OLDEST LIVING GRADUATE

To Reverend John A. Daly, '81, falls the honor of being the oldest living graduate of Boston College. Father Daly, who is Pastor of St. Mark's Church, Dorchester, enrolled at Boston College in 1872 when he was 21 years of age. He is now 82 years old.

While a student at the College he was among the leaders in scholastic and extra-curricular activity. Father Daly, as a commencement speaker, delivered an address on "Sound" when he was awarded his bachelor of arts degree in 1881. After graduation he enrolled at the Grand Seminary in Montreal where he prepared for the priesthood, being ordained in Boston in 1884.

ELBERY MOTOR CO., INC.

299 Prospect Street, Cambridge, Mass.

Authorized FORD Dealers

SALES

Ford

SERVICE

"Service that satisfies"

Frank D. Elbery, B. C. '25

Telephone Porter 3820

Why Not Take a Few Days Away

And enjoy one of the Winter or Spring Cruises to

BERMUDA and THE WEST INDIES

on one of the large

TRANS-ATLANTIC LINERS

Send for a copy of our new Winter and Spring
Cruise Booklet

Official Agents for all lines

McCready Tourist Agency, Inc.

Maurice F. Drummey

John C. Hancock

600 Washington Street,

Boston, Mass.

*15 dec- Paid upmt 12, 1934

The Law School

THE Boston College Law School formally opened its fifth school year with a meeting of the students from the day and the evening divisions. Judge Elias D. Bishop of the Superior Court was the principal speaker of the occasion. Other speakers were: Daniel J. Lyne, Esq., of the State Crime Commission, Very Reverend Louis J. Gallagher, S. J., President of Boston College; Reverend John B. Creeden, S. J., Regent of the Law School; Dean Dennis A. Dooley and Assistant-Dean William J. O'Keefe.

Judge Bishop urged the young men present to begin early to develop the proper professional outlook toward the law. He counselled them to forget any ideas they might have that the law would afford an easy living. "The great majority of lawyers die poor," he said. "Success and happiness in the practice of the legal profession demands devotion to justice, hard and exacting study, and willingness to serve others." "You will learn little law in the spectacular criminal cases," he asserted. "As lawyers you will find clients scarce, and fees hard to collect. But if you will apply those high principles of legal ethics emphasized by this new law school, you will be successful in a real sense, and you will perform a great public service in raising the profession of the law to the high and honorable position it should hold in the community."

Father Gallagher, S. J., traced the development of the American Law School during the last one hundred years in America. "Our whole system of social and economic life," he said, "is undergoing a tremendous change. From this great movement many new aspects of the law will be unfolded and the young men now in law school are the ones to whom great opportunities for adapting the law to meet this new era will come. Father Gallagher also stressed the ethics of the law. "A man might conceivably be a good sailor, but a poor Christian," he said, "but to be a good lawyer in a Christian country demands a healthy set of professional morals."

NECROLOGY

1877—Rev. Patrick H. Callanan, A. M., '79; LL. D., '27. Died October 29, 1933.

1888—John F. O'Brien, M. D. Died October 28, 1933.

Ex-1915—Rev. Richard A. Burke. Died October 13, 1933.

1925—Joseph J. Keegan. Died November 16, 1933.

Requiescant in Pace!

It was announced by Mr. Dooley that the enrollment for this year exceeded 250 men. He praised the work of the graduates, many of whom were present at the meeting.

* * *

LAW CLUBS

Law Clubs are organized for students in small groups of eight or ten members. Membership is voluntary. Each club is under the direction of a competent leader who is a practicing attorney, and students are instructed in the preparation of cases for trial. Directions are given for searching the law governing the case assigned for trial and practice is provided in writing briefs and in arguing the case before a Chief Justice. Two students are assigned as attorneys for the plaintiff and two for the defendant. After the trial the judgment of the court is given on the merits of the case, on the value of the briefs and the arguments of both parties.

All the students in the school are advised to participate in the law club work, since this practice supplies what otherwise might be a necessary course in the law school curriculum on brief-writing and argumentation. The practical value of this training is very great. It teaches the use of the law library and prepares students for the actual law work which they must do later as practising

The Walnut Park Country Day School

71 Walnut Park, Newton, Mass.

An Ideal School for Your Boy

Conducted by the Sisters of St. Joseph under the auspices of His Eminence William Cardinal O'Connell.

Beautiful grounds, airy buildings, swimming pool, tennis court and basketball court; football field and baseball diamond; ideal place for winter sports.

Call Newton North 1407
for Prospectus

attorneys in advising clients about the law on disputed cases which may come to them. The study of law is intensified by the realization that even as a law student care must be exercised in protecting the rights of the client. The student realizes that he must not only know the law but be able to organize authorities on his side of the question in an impressive brief, and then be ready to sustain his case with sufficient arguments to warrant a decision in his favor.

Inter-club competition is arranged and final trials are held before Judges of the Court who are invited to cooperate in this activity.

Professor Cornelius J. Moynihan is in charge of the administration of law clubs and he is assisted by club directors who are graduates of Boston College. The names of the clubs and the directors are as follows:

Byrne Law Club: William J. Kelleher, Esq., (director)

A. B., Boston College; LL. B., Harvard.

Carroll Law Club: Frederick A. McDermott, Esq., (director) A. B., Boston College; LL. B., Harvard.

DeCourcy Law Club: Anthony Julian, Esq., (director) A. B., Boston College; LL. B., Harvard.

Marshall Law Club: Albert L. Hyland, Esq., (director) A. B., Boston College; LL. B., Harvard.

Rugg Law Club: Paul Troy, Esq., (director) A. B., Boston College; LL. B., Harvard.

Taft Law Club: Daniel A. Lynch, Esq., (director) A. B., Boston College; LL. B., Boston University.

Taney Law Club: Jeremiah W. Mahoney, Esq., (director) A. B., Boston College; LL. B., Harvard.

White Law Club: Joseph Rooney, Esq., (director) A. B., Boston College; LL. B., Harvard.

* * *

FACULTY NOTES

Graduates of Boston College are naturally numerous on the Law Faculty. John D. Drum, '90, teaches Property II, the law of conveyances; John C. Johnston, '94, conducts the courses in Criminal Law and Evidence. The courses in Constitutional Law and Legal Ethics are given by Francis J. Carney, '98.

* * *

Other Boston College graduates on the faculty are Dean Dennis A. Dooley, '12; Daniel DeC. Donovan, '09; Thomas L. Gannon, '13; Joseph J. Hurley, '16; John A. Canavan, '18; Henry E. Foley, '22; R. Gaynor Wellings, '23; Joseph G. Crane, '23; Joseph M. Gavan, '25; Walter R. Morris, '26; and Cornelius J. Moynihan, '26.

* * *

Assistant Dean William J. O'Keefe is a graduate of Holy Cross College, Class of 1911, and of the Georgetown Law School. There are two graduates of Harvard College on the staff; Edmond John Ford of Lawrence and Franklin T. Hammond, Jr. of Cambridge, while Notre Dame is represented by Richard J. Dunn of Newton, formerly of Chicago.

* * *

AUTHOR

Edmond John Ford is the author of a four-volume treatise on the Law of Evidence and Trials published by the Callaghan Company of Chicago. He has also written several articles for local legal publications.

John E. Swift, '99, was a member of the law school faculty when he was appointed by Governor Ely a member of the Massachusetts Superior Court. This was the first recognition of the new law school by a Governor of this Commonwealth. May it be followed by many similar honors throughout the years to come. Judge Swift was popular as a law teacher and his appointment pleased everyone who knows him, and countless others who only hear of his good attainments.

* * *

STUDENT NOTES

In the first class to receive degrees from the Law School in June 1932, were a number of graduates of the College. Henry M. Leen, A. B., '29, LL. B. '32, is associated with William Flaherty. Edward U. Lee, A. B., '29, LL. B. '32, has an office in the Lawyers Building. He has been appointed instructor in Criminal Law for the police officers taking State University Extension courses. P. Gerard Cahill, A. B., '29, LL. B. '32, has opened law offices in Waltham. Fred V. McMenimen, A. B., '28, LL. B. '32, is a member of the firm of Coddaire, Vaughan, Gorman and McMenimen at 40 Court Street.

* * *

William Daniel Coughlan, A. B., Holy Cross, '29, LL. B. '32, is engaged in the practice of law with his uncles in Rockland.

* * *

John D. O'Reilly, Jr., A. B., Georgetown, '28; LL. B., Boston College, '32; LL. M., Harvard, '33, is full time professor of law at the Law School of the University of San Francisco.

* * *

Charles J. Hurley, A. B., University of Maine, '29, was the first student from the new law school to pass a bar examination. He was admitted in Maine in February 1931 and immediately took up the practice of his late father in Ellsworth. His office was completely burned out in the big fire in Ellsworth last winter.

* * *

Stanley A. Bowker, John L. Fitzpatrick, Alfred W. DeQuoy, John F. Flynn, Francis J. Connors, and William J. Cochran, Jr. are all getting their first experience as lawyers this year before the courts of Massachusetts.

ADMITTED TO BAR

Almost fifty per cent of the students from the Boston College Law School passed the recent Bar Examinations. The following were admitted to practice on November 1, 1933:—John L. Connolly of Somerville, A. B., '30, LL. B., '33; Edward L. Donovan of Peabody, A. B., '30, LL. B., '33; Robert T. Doyle of Northampton, LL. B., '33; Mark H. Kelliher of Springfield, LL. B., '33; William D. Tribble of Somerville, LL. B., '33; William J. Brennan, A. B., Penn State, '26, LL. B., '33; Dennis M. Crowley of Boston, B. Sc., Mass. State College, '26, LL. B., '33; Thomas V. Geagan of Newton, A. B., '26, LL. B., '33; Robert E. Hayes of Peabody, A. B., Holy Cross, '26, LL. B., '33; John T. Herstrom of Dorchester, A. B., Harvard, '27, LL. B., '33; Albert B. Mannix of Winthrop, A. B., Harvard, '23, LL. B., '33; George L. McKim of Dorchester, A. B., '22, M. Ed., '23, LL. B., '33. John E. Tierney of Lynn, A. B., '25, LL. B., '33; and Alfred W. DeQuoy of Brockton, LL. B., '32.

* * *

FORMER STUDENT ASSEMBLIES

It has been the practice at the law school to arrange appropriate meetings so that students may learn the practical problems of the law from men best qualified to speak about them. During the first year of the operation of the school (1929-30) two notable meetings were held, the speakers at the first being George R. Nutter, then president of the Boston Bar Association, and Daniel M. Lyons, '07; and at the second meeting former Attorney General Herbert Parker and William Flaherty, Esquire. At the opening session of the second year in September 1930, the students were greeted by Reverend James H. Dolan, S. J., as president of the College and the principal speaker was Professor Joseph H. Beale of the Harvard Law School. "I come," said Professor Beale, "as the representative of the oldest law school in the country to welcome this the newest law school into the company of those schools who teach law in the great way."

The first dinner of the law school was held in honor of James Byrne, Esquire, of New York, for whom one of the Law Clubs is named. Mr. Byrne is vice-president of the American Law Institute and Chancellor of the University of the State of New York. For years he has been an outstanding figure in the legal profession in America and it was partly through his efforts that the Institute, ten years ago, began the work of writing the Restatement of the Law. Mr. Byrne presented the Byrne Law Club with a check for $500.00, the proceeds to be used for furthering legal scholarship through law club activity. Other speakers on this occasion were Professor Felix Frankfurter of the Harvard Law School who began his legal career in the office of Mr. Byrne in New York, and Judges John J. Burns, '22, and Daniel J. O'Connell of the Massachusetts superior Court.

The first class to graduate from the Law School received the degrees in June, 1933. On this occasion the College honored Professor Beale of Harvard by conferring on him the L. L.D. degree and at the same time a similar degree was conferred on Dean Dooley.

At subsequent meetings of the Nisi Prius Club, under the direction of Professor Walter R. Morris of the law school faculty, notable talks on practical subjects in law were given by Professor Edmund J. Morgan of Harvard Law School; Judge Stanley E. Qua of the Superior Court; Judge Maurice J. Flynn of the Malden District Court; William T. A. Fitzgerald, Register of Deeds in Suffolk County; and Secretary of State Frederick J. Cook.

The members of the Junior Class in May, 1933, tendered a dinner to the Seniors—to celebrate the conferring of the first law degrees on students in the evening school. Judge Charles T. Davis of the Land Court, Judge James A. Halloran of Norwood, and Reverend Jones I. J. Corrigan, S. J. were the speakers.

Compliments of the
CLASS OF
1922

ANNUAL DINNER
At the Hotel Victoria on the evening of December 27th, at 6 P. M.

10 paid

CLASSES ON PARADE

CLASS OF 1898

Rev. Thomas C. Garrahan is now pastor of Sacred Heart Church, East Boston.

John M. Brewin, M. D., has been practising medicine in Everett for more than twenty-five years.

Rev. Francis J. Dore, S. J., a recognized authority on Biology, is professor of that subject at Boston College. Father Dore, a graduate of Harvard Medical School, practised medicine in Boston before he joined the Society of Jesus.

Henry M. Rooney, M. D., is practising in Los Angeles, California, and is recognized as one of the leading obstetricians of that state.

John V. Gallagher, M. D., has established his practise in Milford, Mass.

Edward J. Grainger, M. D., has been practising in East Boston and Winthrop, Mass.

Judge Timothy A. Ahern is an Associate Justice in Roxbury Municipal Court.

Francis J. Carney is a professor of law at Boston College Law School. Mr. Carney, whose offices are at 31 St. James Avenue, Boston, has been most helpful in the preparation of Alumnus.

Bartholomew B. Coyne, attorney, in New York City, has for many years represented the Danish Consul and has received a non-inheritable title from the King of Denmark for his distinguished service to the Consul.

George A. McLaughlin is a practising attorney in New York City.

Thomas J. Grady, attorney, has his law offices in Boston.

Daniel J. Chapman is in the real estate business in South Boston.

Thomas M. Green is special agent for the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company.

James D. Russell is associated with the Employers' Liability Assurance Company.

CLASS OF 1906

Rev. Patrick J. McHugh, S. J., Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, has been most helpful to Alumnus. Never is his day too busy to give generously of his time and talent to make Alumnus a success.

William McMorrow is City Collector for the City of Boston.

J. Francis McMorrow is associated with the Home Loan Bank in Boston.

CLASS OF 1909

The Class is planning to have the largest turnout of any previous twenty-five year class to celebrate its 25th anniversary on Alumni Day next June. A meeting is planned in the near future to make arrangements for a real celebration.

Before leaving for the West to assume his new duties a reception was tendered Most Reverend Gerald M. Shaughnessy, S. M., S. T. D., newly consecrated Bishop of Seattle, Washington, at the home of Rev. Henry M. Tattan, '09. Many of the members of the class were in attendance. Very Rev. Louis J. Gallagher, S. J., President of the College, was also a guest of the evening.

CLASS OF 1911

Francis J. O'Hara, master of the Thorndike School, Cambridge, is now editor of the "Recall," American Legion, Post 27.

Rev. John F. Vigneron is doing parish work in Lemmon, South Dakota.

Rev. Daniel F. Burke is senior curate in St. Mary's parish, Lynn.

CLASS OF 1912

Joseph A. Barrett, of the law firm of Haaren and Barrett, 39 Broadway, New York, lives in Ossining, has five children but finds time to renew his friendships at B. C. gatherings in New York.

Charles M. Herlihy, formerly of Cambridge but now of Fitchburg, is a college president. He became such when the Massachusetts Legislature changed the Fitchburg Normal School into State Teachers' College. Charlie has over 700 students in his institution but no football team.

Dennis A. Dooley, as dean of the new B. C. Law School, is in a position to recommend capable young attorneys, graduates of the school, who are seeking opportunities in law work.

Reverend John J. Phelan is assistant parish priest at St. Mary's in Brookline.

A. Francis Harrington of Wakefield is actively engaged in the practice of law in Boston. In addition he teaches Business Law and Real Estate Law for the State Division of University Extension. His students number over three hundred this year. The classes are held at the State House.

Edmund J. Butler, M. D., of Cambridge is a member of the staff of the Cambridge City Hospital. He is an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist.

Ben A. Godvin, M. D., who attends to the physical condition of the B. C. football team, is another member of this class who is prominent in the medical profession. His office is at 483 Beacon St., Boston.

Reverend Raymond J. McInnis, S. J., is professor of Dogmatic Theology at Weston College; Reverend Daniel J. Mahoney, S. J., is on the mission band at South Norwalk, Conn.; Reverend John J. Lyons, S. J., is Rector at Shadowbrook, the Jesuit Normal School in West Stockbridge, Mass., and Reverend Florence M. Gillis, S. J., is stationed in New York.

CLASS OF 1913

Rev. Bennet J. O'Brien of St. Peter's Church, Observatory Hill, Cambridge, has been appointed resident chaplain at the Long Island Hospital to succeed Rev. Louis Halliwell S. J., who has been transferred to Holy Cross College after eight years service as chaplain.

CLASS OF 1916

Rev. William Deacy, O. S. A., recently gave a mission at St. Francis de Sales parish in Charlestown. Father Deacy is stationed at 3900 Harewood Road, Washington, D. C., and has charge of the Augustinian theologians and student priests in the Capitol.

CLASS OF 1919

Rev. Edward T. Douglas, S. J., former president of the Boston College Student Athletic Council, has returned to University Heights as professor of Religion.

Al Doyle is successfully carrying on his father's contracting business.

Harold Fagan, football lineman during the Brickley regime, is assistant professor of chemistry at the College.

Garrett Foley, faculty manager at Cambridge Latin School sponsored a visit of the Cambridge Latin football squad to the Heights recently to watch the Villanova game as the guests of the Boston College Athletic Association. Garrett was married last June.

Henry J. Gillen, former editor of The Stylus, is writing feature articles for the Boston Post. We hear rumors that Henry is about to introduce a new book to the public.

Jack Gorman is sub-master at the Washington Irving School in Roslindale, where Bill Miller, '04, is the head master.

Rev. William Harrington is Diocesan Director of Charities at Fall River, Mass.

Joseph Healey, M. D., is on the staff of the contagious division of the Boston City Hospital.

Edward Kickman, M. D., with offices at 270 Commonwealth Avenue, conducts a clinic at the Carney Hospital.

Bill Kirby is assistant credit manager for the R. H. White Co.

A daughter, Marie, has been born to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Maloney.

John McCarthy, former member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, is a practising attorney.

Rev. Daniel McCarthy is a curate in St. Paul's parish, Dorchester.

Rev. Leo O'Day is a curate at St. Peter's Church, Dorchester.

Frank Renahan and Bob Simmons are junior masters on the faculty of Boston English High School.

Rev. John O'Leary is a curate at the Immaculate Conception Church, Milton.

Rev. Harold Quigley, S. J., is a member of the faculty at Holy Cross College.

Alumnus apologizes to the youngest daughter of Class President Frank Roland for calling her a little boy in the last issue.

Frank Shea is junior master in the department of Commercial Branches in Roxbury Memorial High School.

Rev. Garrett Scollard, formerly manager of the Boston College track team, is assistant at St. Thomas Aquinas, Bridgewater.

Fred Shea, attorney for the United States Veterans' Bureau, was transferred recently to New York City.

CLASS OF 1920

Louis A. Kane is associated with Standard Brands and travels out of the Cambridge office.

John Hendry, M. D., practices medicine in Chelsea.

Ed Higgins is manager of one of the Schrafft stores in Boston. Ed lives in Belmont.

Tom Shaw is with Standard Brands at their Lowell office. Tom is married and now lives in Lowell.

Walter Kiley is sports writer for the Boston Evening American.

Gerald O'Neil is in the insurance business in Boston.

Rev. Charles Riley is a curate at the Church of the Holy Name, West Roxbury.

Bill Power is master of the East Junior High School in Arlington.

Rev. George Scully is a curate at the Gate of Heaven church, South Boston.

CLASS OF 1921

James E. Donahue, D. M. D., has his dental offices at 300 Mount Auburn Street, Watertown.

James J. Fitzpatrick is teacher-coach at South Portland High School. Jimmy's performances on the gridiron immediately following the World War still are fresh in the minds of all football followers.

Charles J. McCabe is at the Registry of Motor Vehicles in Boston.

Rev. Thomas J. Burns, Jr., South Hamilton, is a curate at Newbury.

Judge John J. Burns of the Superior Court is living in Belmont. John has the distinction of being the youngest man ever appointed to the bench of the Superior Court in Massachusetts and is also the first son of Boston College to attain that high honor. A baby boy called at John's home recently.

Jerry Mahoney recently has become a member of the firm of Lyne, Woodworth & Evarts, Lawyers, 75 Federal Street, Boston. Jerry has been very loyal to all Boston College activities and took a very keen interest in the freshman baseball team last Spring by furnishing transportation for their games away from home.

John Sullivan is associated with Badger, Pratt, Doyle & Badger, insurance lawyers, 53 State Street, Boston.

Rev. James Glennon is a curate at St. Michael's Church, North Andover.

John B. Donohue is editor of the Knights of Columbus magazine "Columbia." John was a contributor to the first issue of Alumnus.

CLASS OF 1922

James Collins is in the investment business at 75 Federal Street, Boston.

John White is with Robert F. Ambrose Company, wool merchants, 263 Summer Street, Boston.

James Dullea is an inspector with the Massachusetts Highway Commission.

Clement Jordan is in the insurance business in Chicago, Ill.

Walter Graham is Sports Editor of the Springfield Republican.

Leonard Healy is in the printing business at 170 Summer Street, Boston.

Bill Kelleher, former freshman coach at the Heights, is a teacher at Rindge Technical School, Cambridge.

Rev. Thomas Foley is a curate at St. Catherine's Church, Somerville.

Joe Donovan is in the insurance business at Worcester, Massachusetts.

Ralph Shea is associated with Standard Brands, in the Portland, Maine, district.

Ed McGreenery is in the investment business at 100 Milk Street, Boston. A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. McGreenery recently.

Rev. John Connors is curate at St. Ann's Church, Neponset.

Bill Sheehan, who is associated with Doremus & Company, advertisers, has been very helpful in giving Alumnus the benefit of his wide experience.

John Norton is the only member of the class teaching at the Heights. Prosit.

Daniel J. Hayes is president and John F. Hayes is vice-president of the American Oil Company of Massachusetts. Offices are in Cambridge.

The Annual Class banquet for "the greatest class" will be held Wednesday evening, December 27th at the Victoria. "Art" McNeil is chairman. "Enuf ced!"

The class extends its sincerest sympathy to John Kelley in the loss of his father and to Joseph Donovan whose mother died last October.

Rev. Thomas J. Riley has returned recently from a two years' course at the University of Louvain in Belgium. He is expecting to be assigned to the faculty of St. John's Seminary in Brighton.

Henry M. Cunney is principal of the Saltonstall School in Salem, Mass.

CLASS OF 1923

The marriage of Miss Marjorie Duggan and Joseph L. Sweeney was solemnized recently in St. Joseph's Church, Hollbrook. Joe is an attorney associated with the law firm of Barclay, Brown and Jones of Boston.

The marriage of Miss Margaret Kennedy and Edward J. Burke, D. M. D., was solemnized recently. Ed is a graduate of Harvard Dental School.

CLASS OF 1924

Rev. George Sullivan is stationed in Whitman, Mass.

Rev. William Gorman is a member of the faculty of St. John's Seminary.

The Class congratulates Charles M. Smith of Cambridge for his desertion of the ranks of the bachelors recently. Mrs. Smith is the former Agnes M. Norton of Somerville. The marriage was performed by Rev. Sidney J. Smith, S. J., brother of the groom. Charlie is associated with the G. F. Corporation of Boston.

Arthur Murphy is in the unlisted securities business with A. G. Shea and Company, 10 Postoffice Square, Boston.

Francis P. Kilcoyne is an instructor at Hunter College, New York City. He is a member of the Boston College Club of New York.

Walter Conway is associated with the Travelers' Insurance Company, Newark, N. J. He is a member of the Boston College Club of New York.

Edmund J. Murphy, Secretary of the Boston College Club of New York is house furnishings buyer for John Wanamaker Department Stores and vice-chairman of the Junior Board of Trade. Ed has demonstrated to Alumnus his excellent qualifications as a secretary, by his kind cooperation and response to our every request.

Bob Merrick, former hurdler at the Heights, is a member of the Boston College Club of New York. It is rumored that Bob is seriously considering deserting his bachelor friends.

George E. Hughes is associated with the Shell Eastern Petroleum Company. George is a member of the Boston College Club of New York.

CLASS OF 1925

The marriage of Miss Mena Monica Shea and Mr. John P. Maloney was solemnized in St. Raphael's Church, West Medford, Columbus Day. Mr. Maloney received his master's degree at Boston College in 1926 and is sub-master at Blackington School, East Boston.

Stanley Sepka is employed at R. H. White Co., is married and lives in Wollaston.

Rev. John D. Clark, ex-'25, is a curate at St. Ann's Church, Wollaston.

George F. Donovan, Ph.D., is president of Webster College, a subsidiary of St. Louis University.

Julian McGrath is associated with the United Fruit Company and lives in Morris Plains, New Jersey. His engagement was announced recently.

Bill Glavin is employed by the Davis Dry Yeast Company and is living in New Jersey. Bill is an active member of the Boston College Club of New York.

Francis C. Driscoll is a statistician in the Quincy Health Department.

Rev. Ernest MacDonald is a curate in Lexington.

Rev. William Sherry has been assigned recently to St. Monica's Church, South Boston.

Rev. Joseph W. Regan, a Maryknoll Missionary, has charge of the Mission at Pinglo Pantien Kwangsi, China. Father Regan would be happy indeed, to hear from any of his classmates. A letter today would make the Christmas season a bit more cheerful.

The class is happy to know that Neil O'Callaghan has recovered from a recent operation.

Lt. George Lermond is now stationed at Camp Dix. George was graduated from West Point Academy in 1929. He is at present holder of the National A. A. U., five-mile championship. He is an active member of the Boston College Club of New York.

Arthur Duffy is with the General Foods Corporation of New York City and is an active member of the Boston College Club of New York.

James E. Tobin is a professor at Fordham Law School and a member of the Boston College Club of New York.

CLASS OF 1926

Luke H. McCloskey, former member of the Intercollegiate Penn Relay Championship team and Francis C. Tierney, are partners in the real estate firm McCloskey and Tierney, in Brighton.

The marriage of Miss Mary A. Concannon of Milton and Mr. Albert J. Keenan recently was solemnized.

The nuptials of Miss Ida C. Clasby and Mr. Albert C. Fallon were solemnized October 7, at the Boston College Chapel. Rev. Patrick J. McHugh, S. J., Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, officiated at the ceremony.

Charles O'Malley has returned to Boston from New York City and is conducting a Financial Advisory Service with his brother, Mr. Louis O'Malley, a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

CLASS OF 1927

The class of 1927 recently inaugurated its third annual series of dinner meetings at the Durgin Park restaurant, Haywood Place, Boston. The officers of the class are Thomas C. Heffernan, Dorchester, president; Frederick A. McDermott, Allston, vice-president; Daniel H. O'Leary, Jamaica Plain, treasurer; John J. Buckley, Hyde Park, secretary.

Frank Hurley is a teacher at North Arlington High School, New Jersey. Frank is a member of the Boston College Club of New York.

Thomas C. Keefe is associated with his father in the J. P. Eustis Manufacturing Company. The engagement of Tom to Miss Margaret L. Hughes of South Natick, recently was announced.

CLASS OF 1928

Thomas M. Gemelli and Richard J. Condon are engaged in social service work in the City of Boston. Tom is Probation Officer at the Roxbury Court, while Dick is in the Welfare Department at City Hall.

Paul R. Henchey, M. D., and Joseph B. Doyle, M. D., are interns at Boston City Hospital. They are graduates of Harvard Medical School where both finished among the first fifteen of their class.

Among the members of the Class who are teaching in the schools of Boston are John M. Barry, Charles J. Lynch, Bernard A. McCabe and Eugene J. Plociennik.

Neil T. Scanlon is the night city editor of the Boston American.

Anthony Emmett McCrann, former business manager of Sub Turri, is producer of a graphic statistical service which is being used by the larger brokerage houses throughout the East. He attended Harvard Business School where he was a member of the "Review."

Alexander J. Ross recently deserted the ranks of the bachelors by taking as his bride, Miss Viola Marie Collins. The couple will live in Minneapolis.

Paul F. Shea and Daniel M. Driscoll are in the advertising department of the Boston Evening Traveler.

Norman A. Steele is in the bond business.

CLASS OF 1931

Anders Anderson, former varsity football center, was elected ward councillor in the recent Cambridge elections.

Edward Murphy, former football end and outfielder on the Varsity baseball team is studying medicine at Long Island University, N. Y.

Charles C. McCarthy is in the advertising department of the Boston Globe.

Charles H. McCue is associated with the Law Department of the City of Boston.

Thomas F. O'Brien is an instructor in Physics and Chemistry at Watertown High School.

John P. Rattigan is with the Standard Oil Company of New York.

John E. Reinhardt is in the sales department of General Motors Truck Company.

George B. Roddy is in the employ of the Colonial Beacon Oil Company.

Robert D. Sullivan is associated with a prominent Waltham advertising agency.

Messrs. John F. Barrett, Ralph A. Mallett, Roger F. Riordan, Charles H. McCue, John J. Sullivan and Russell F. Williams are at Boston College Law School.

At Georgetown Medical School we find Ceslaus J. Antos, Gordon Carey and Herbert Varney.

Francis J. West and Ewald W. Dawson are at Harvard Medical School.

George Donahue and Edmund E. Maddock are continuing their studies at Harvard Dental School.

The Class of 1931 takes this opportunity to extend to Thomas J. Foley, John F. Ryan and Joseph T. Sullivan its best wishes for a speedy recovery from illness.

John T. Ryan is professor of Sophomore Chemistry at Boston College.

Messrs. Leo F. Amrhein, Edmund G. Bagnulo, Edmund L. Carey, Richard J. Gorman, Kenneth V. Dalton, John M. Earley, Fred C. Labrecque and Charles S. Mullen are at Tufts Medical School.

John J. Wright and Daniel J. O'Connell are at the North American College in Rome.

The following are at St. John's Seminary: Charles R. Flanigan, Francis J. Meehan, Charles A. McCarthy, William J. McLean, Emile O. Hemond, Ernest Pearsall, Edward Flaherty, Timothy E. Sullivan, Arthur I. Norton, Joseph Daley and William J. Dolan.

James O'Donnell is associated with the Heinz Company in Portland, Maine.

CLASS OF 1932

John J. Sullivan is at Harvard Law School.

Brendan Moynihan was one of the five athletes who recently represented the B. A. A. New England cross country champions in the National cross country championship at Chicago, Ill.

Gerry Moore is sports writer for the Boston Evening Transcript. Gerry has been very helpful to Alumnus.

Joseph Rogers, former president of the Fulton Debating Society, received his degree of Master of Education and is now teaching at Memorial High School in Roxbury.

John W. Walsh is teaching at Revere high school.

Francis J. Crump, O. M. I., is now at the Oblate Novitiate, Tewksbury, Mass.

CLASS OF 1933

Bill Hogan, former class president, is at Harvard Law School.

Paul Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Reynolds of Scituate, sailed recently from New York on a tour around the world.

PROFESSIONAL FRIENDS

Jeremiah W. Mahoney 75 Federal St Paid 2.50 ✓	Albert L. Hyland 75 Federal St Paid 2.50 ✓	Paul R. Foisy 90 Thos St Camb. Paid 2.50 ✓
Joseph A. Scolponetti 11 Beacon St ✓	Edwin D. Gallagher 209 Wash. St Boston Lef 3212 ✓	Elias Shamon 294 Wash St Boston, Mass. Pl. 2.50 ✓
Paul E. Troy 31 St. James Ave. Paid 2.50 ✓	Daniel A. Lynch 31 St. James Ave. Paid 2.50 ✓	Thomas L. Gannon 30 State St. Boston Feb 3413 Paid 2.50 ✓
Walter R. Morris 433 Broadway Covett. Paid ✓	William J. Day 907 Barnstable Hall Boston, Mass. Lef. 6650 ✓	John A. Canavan 31 St. James Ave. Paid 2.50 ✓
James I. Rooney 557 Main St Waltham, Mass ✓	Joseph P. Rooney 15 Federal St Boston Paid 2.50 Feb 6655 ✓	Francis J. Roland 10 State St. ✓ Paid 2.50
J. Burke Sullivan 11 Beacon St Paid. 2.50 ✓	David H. Fulton 10 Tremont St Boston Pl. 2.50 ✓	Bernard F. Donovan 571 Mass Ave Camb Pd.,

45.00

—about Cigarettes

Of all the ways in which tobacco is used the cigarette is the mildest form

YOU know, ever since the Indians found out the pleasure of smoking tobacco, there have been many ways of enjoying it.

But of all the ways in which tobacco is used, the cigarette is the mildest form.

Everything that money can buy and everything that Science knows about is used to make Chesterfields. The tobaccos are blended and cross-blended the right way — the cigarettes are made right — the paper is right.

There are other good cigarettes, of course, but Chesterfield is the cigarette that's milder the cigarette that tastes better

Chesterfield

40 pack

They Satisfy... just try them

M. B. CO
JUN 1939
BINDERS

216587

